Agriculture: Spiritual Foundations For The Renewal Of Agriculture

Synopsis

With this remarkable series of lectures presented in Koberwitz, Silesia, June 7-16, 1924, Rudolf Steiner founded biodynamic agriculture. They contain profound insights into farming, the plant and animal world, the nature of organic chemistry, and the influences of heavenly bodies. This translation from the original German by Catherine E. Creeger and Malcolm Gardner is a fundamental text for many intermediate and advanced students of biodynamic agriculture. It is one to which the biodynamic practitioner will refer again and again over the years. In addition to the eight lectures, this version includes four discussions by Steiner, color plates of Steiner's chalk drawings, the address to the members of the Agricultural Experimental Circle, Steiner's report to members of the Anthroposophical Society after the lectures, Steiner's handwritten notes to the Agriculture Course, further agricultural indications given by Steiner, and "New Directions in Agriculture" by Ehrenfried Pfeiffer (a colleague of Steiner's who brought biodynamic agriculture to North America).

Text: English (translation) Original Language: German --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

This book is based on 8 lectures given to people with a background of his anthroposophical teachings. It gives many bio dynamic farming techniques with insights how they fit in to a bigger view of agriculture and the cosmos. This fuller picture of agricultural practices is very timely with all that is presently going on like plowing, GMO, spraying, etc. A great source of information nowhere else found.

This is a beautiful book, complete with Steiner's own drawings. If you like Steiner, this is him.

great work by Steiner

Before Organic farming and gardening, a product of the 1960's revival of awareness of the importance of healthy food and environmental awareness there were already healthy roots in Western Mysticism. (Read also Blavatsky, Besant and Leadbeater) In 1926 Rudolph Steiner delivered a series of lectures to a loyal group of Anthroposophists in Koberwitz, Austria. Reading the text of the lectures is a rare, deep draught of the river of arcane knowledge. In order to absorb it, you must float yourself in it and sink down into it, perhaps to drown. This is not a how-to book. There are some very successful applications of the principles and processes described in the lectures in Australia and North America, which includes the Biodynamic Association in Kimberton, Pennsylvania. Organic gardening is only the first step in reclaiming sustainable and healthy agriculture, and the application of the principles outlined in this book may be an important next step.
